Pat Tabler Dies; Memorial Planned

Patricia Tabler of Keedysville, Maryland, who served congregational libraries and CSLA in several capacities on national, regional and local levels, died April 25 of cancer. Memorial services were held at Pat's former church in Silver Spring, Maryland.

Pat founded and developed the church library, named in her honor, at Silver Spring Presbyterian Church. For nearly 30 years Pat also served libraries through the Church Library Council of Washington, DC and CSLA. She organized church library workshops for several years, was on the national board of CSLA both as secretary and later treasurer. In recent years, she has represented CSLA in National Library Week Partners, and was Nominations chair for the year just ended. She worked as a researcher with the Agriculture Department's National Agricultural Library in Beltsville, MD. When she and her husband moved to Keedysville on retirement, Pat organized a new library at Mt. Nebo United Methodist Church.

Pat's family requested that memorials be designated for a special CSLA project. At the Haverford conference the board determined that funds would be set aside to pay conferences expenses for a "beginning" librarian and a complete set of CSLA guides and bibliographies would be given to the library of the librarian chosen.

Friends of Pat are invited to contribute to the fund being gathered in her honor.
